

June 1, 2009

Forum of Bible Agencies International Launches "Find A Bible" Website

The Forum of Bible Agencies International announces the launch of Find A Bible, an innovative and interactive website that gives easy access to Scriptures in more than 3,000 languages. The Find A Bible site (www.findabible.net) provides the most comprehensive and current database of Bibles and portions in majority and minority languages available. Many Scripture products noted on the site have never before been listed on the web. Through Find A Bible, users now have a single place to search, download, view, or listen to these Bibles through links to Forum member agency websites.

As the global community continues to increase its dependency on the Internet, the public expects to find information about Scripture availability online. If a Google search for a Bible in a given language turns up nothing, people will assume it does not exist.

Prior to the release of Find A Bible, people wishing to find Scripture in a particular language had to browse through a variety of web sites that offered a limited number of Scripture products for purchase or online viewing. But now, through Find A Bible, with just the name of a language and a click of the mouse, links to Scripture products or information about the product are within reach.

Find A Bible is the culmination of years of research and work by Forum agencies working together to see that all who are searching for God's word in their own language can find it. The Forum of Bible Agencies International is an alliance of more than 25 leading international Bible Agencies and other missions organizations with a shared vision: "working together to maximize the worldwide access and impact of God's Word."

For more information on Find A Bible, to arrange an interview with Forum staff, or to suggest a Scripture product included in the database, contact Erin Burton at 781-933-4474. For a list of Forum members, visit the website at www.forum-intl.net.

###